TUESDAY
SEPTEMBER 7, 1954

Have settled into a routine. Beach in the morning, late lunch, siesta, a ride to Palma, a slight stroll there, a seat at a café to view the polyglot tourists, a late dinner. Tommy telephoned today to say there was a letter for me from Foster indicating the President's and his desire to have me, later on, take some unstated position in Washington. We shall see, but I have no appetite for it.
